

SEPTEMBER 24, 2001

People

weekly

SEPT. 11, 2001

THE DAY THAT SHOOK AMERICA

With 65 aboard,
United Flight 175 heads for its direct hit on the south tower of
New York City's World Trade Center

University of Texas students (from left) Carissa Castillo, Shena Baker and Perreda Palmer attended a campus vigil.

Daniel Gutierrez, 21, a student at University of Texas at Austin and one of several thousand who attended a spontaneous candlelight vigil on campus

“The tragedies today were nothing that anyone in my age group would ever have expected. A big part of American youth just can’t identify with something like this. It will probably be the worst thing to happen on American soil in my generation’s lifetime. At least I hope it is.”